

I feel as do a number of allied governments who have run extensive test with the BPL concept that it is totally incompatible with currently licensed operations. The passage of any rule making which relaxes Part 15 Regulations in order to accommodate BPL service will be a disaster and should be avoided at all cost. The possibility of interference to legitimate services is so obvious as to make the whole concept unthinkable. No matter how attractive it may appear on the surface IT IS NOT. It can only be a complete and total disaster for all legitimate services. I am a retired microwave engineer and licensed radio amateur K5JG along with Radio Telephone commercial license and am a Life Member in the IEEE.
